

The New Lyke Wake Walk Club AGM 23/03/2024 : Rachel MacAleese Doctorate of Dolefulness Presentation

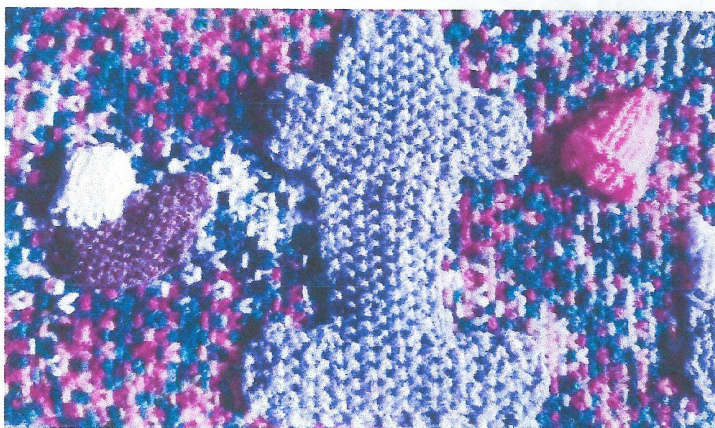

Unaccustomed as I am to writing or composing ...I couldn't do a song or witty story for my Doctor of Dolefulness Dissertation ... But I can knit. So here is the Lyke Wake Walk in knitted form, albeit definitely not to scale , scary if Fat Betty was bigger than the Fylingdales early warning station !. Here is a short summary . The background is knitted in Linen stitch in wool to reflect the colours of the moor.

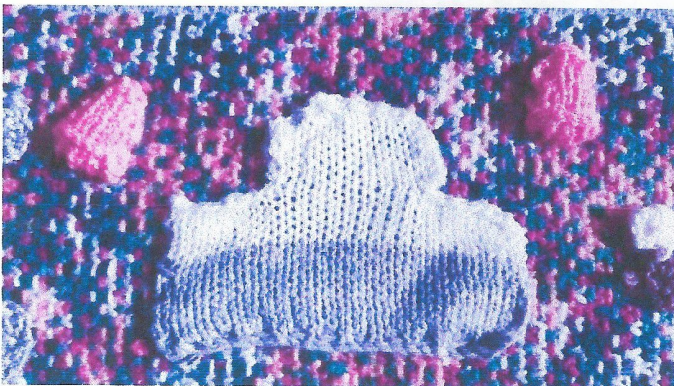

Stage 1 , Starting in the dark under the stars at Osmotherley and the LWW stone

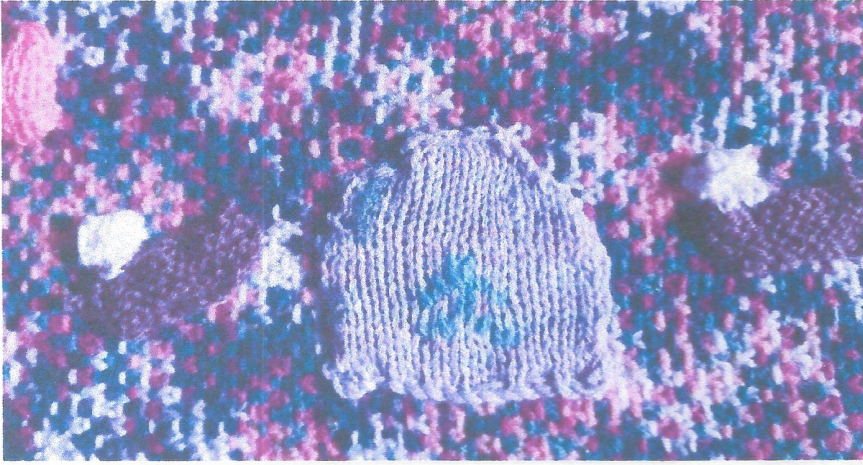

Stage 2 , Sunrise over the Wainstones , you have to have something beautiful to make getting up at 2:30 am worthwhile

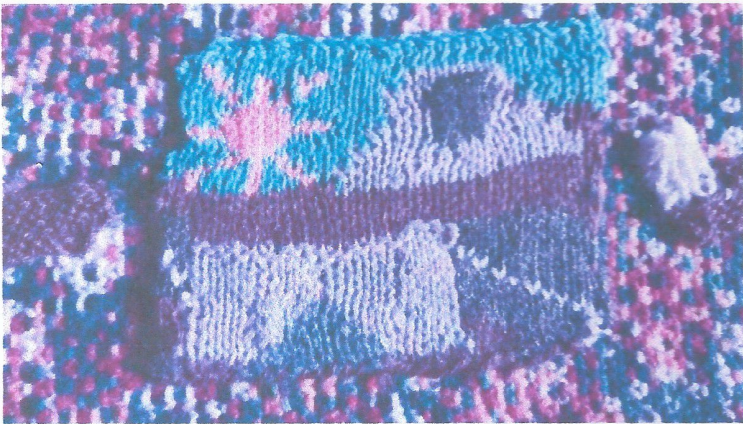

Stage 3 To Ralph Cross complete with Boot and Bobble Hat. Again, not to scale Ralph Cross is not 10X bigger than The Wainstones .

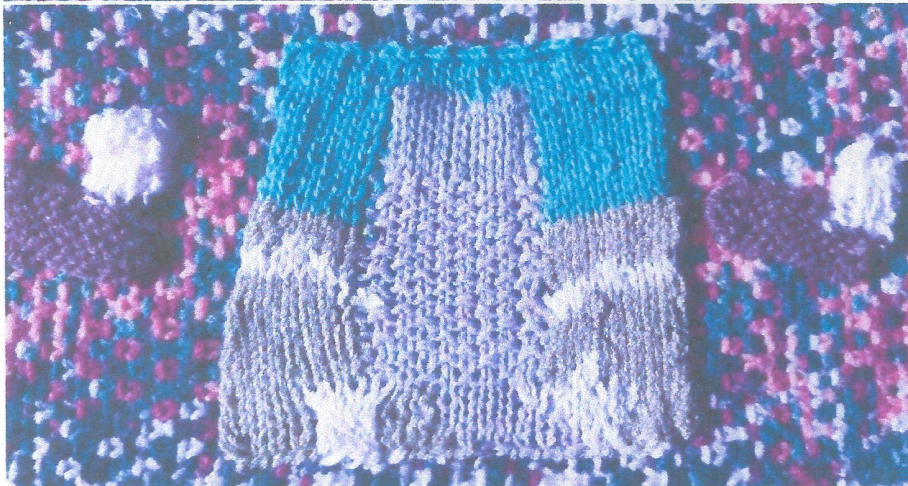

Fat Betty , obviously windy up there the Bobble Hats have blown off

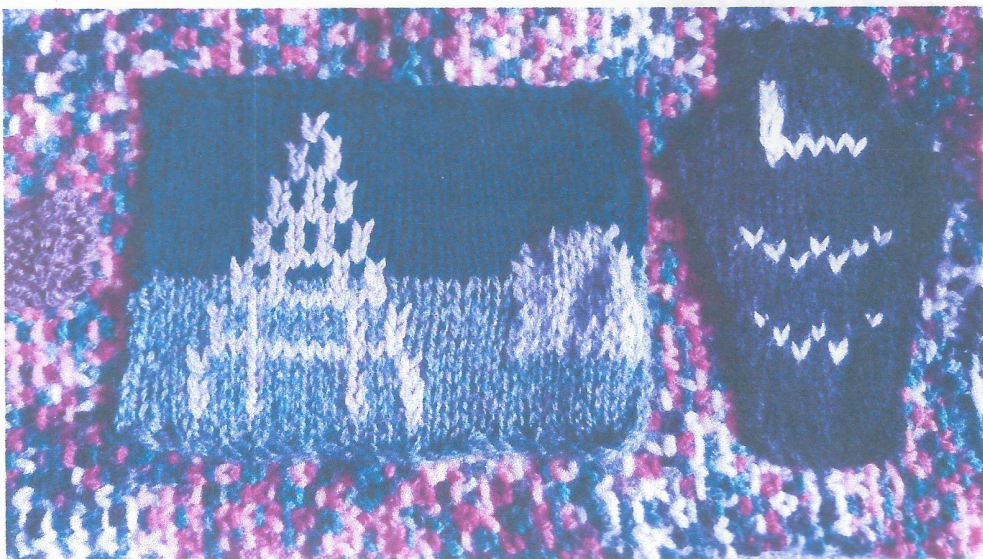

Stage 4 Passing the Blue Man of the Moor , well after all it is cold up there !

Stage 5 crossing the road at Ellerbeck , turning out to be a nice sunny evening

Stage 6 Passing Lilla Cross

Final Stage, That Mast never seems to get any bigger so as we arrive at the LWW stone at Ravenscar with the skies beginning to darken it is appropriate that the Mast is only twice the size of the stone. Another Crossing completed ...
